

Wolf (Canis lupus): To some the wolf is an icon of cherished wilderness values. To others the wolf is a villain. In the wild wolves shun contact with people. Millions of men, women and children have camped in wolf habitat without being bothered by the animals.

The wolf, progenitor of the domestic dog, has suffered greatly both from direct persecution, and indirectly from human encroachment upon its wilderness domain. Many distinctive races of the wolf, both in North America and Eurasia, have been exterminated or reduced to tiny, endangered populations. Shooting, trapping and poisoning have too often been the fate of the wolf, and in areas where it manages to survive, there are often government and privately sanctioned schemes to reduce the population, usually in the expectation of increasing the numbers of game species.

Animal Alliance of Canada seeks to protect the wolf and all wildlife through education and through legislation at international, federal, provincial and municipal levels.

Professor J.P. Jones
Department of Mathematics & Statistics
University of Calgary
Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4
Canada

Dear Mr Juffe:

I am writing to let you know that I support the petition to ban the forced molting

of layen hens, i docket 98 P 0203/CP

of layen hens, i docket 98 P 0203/CP

I write out of concern about cruelty

I write out of concern about cruelty

of factory (bicken raising)

of factory (bicken raising)

Sincerely Jame P. Jones

Tama U.S. (Hizen) JAMES P. Jones

Professor J.P. Jones
Department of Mathematics & Statistics
University of Calgary
Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4
Canada

Lyle D., Jaffe
Dockets Mgmt

FDA/DHHS

12420 Parklawn Dr. Room 1-23

Rockville MD

USA

20857

Air Mail Par avion

Johllhadaladalahadlala